Walking the path of Christ with love and service through a Catholic Education.

Class Notes...

Another busy week in first grade! Everyone has been very excited about the caterpillars. We made Earth Day suncatchers and read with the Kindergarteners. We earned some extra recess and did some graphing games. It was a good week.

Next week, we will be doing Map testing on Monday and Thursday. Please talk with your child about doing the best job possible.

Many students are now reading chapter books. Please continue to have your child read independently or to you each night. It does make a difference. Next week, we will be having our reading assembly. Please let me know how many books your child has been reading. In February, the first graders read 245 books! Well done!

Next Wednesday, we will celebrate Muffins with Mom before school. Please consider staying for the 8:30 Mass, as the first graders have the Mass parts. Readings have gone home. Please practice with your children.
