Walking the path of Christ with love and service through a Catholic Education.

Class Notes...

Our short week has been very full. The kids are really enjoying learning about animal adaptations. We did a few explorations as to why bird feathers stay dry and how webbed feet help some birds to swim better. More to come next week.

Next week, we will get back to "normal." Spelling test will resume on Fridays.

Next Friday, we will be having a Spring Carnival. First and third graders should wear red and/or yellow tops with dress code bottoms. It should be a fun time.

Your child's Family Life book is in the folder tonight. Since we did the questions together as a class, some things are not filled in. You may keep the books at home.

Supplies are running out. If your child needs something, a note is in the folder tonight.

A few schoolwide notes:
