Class Notes...

I can't believe that September is over! I feel like the kids are in a nice routine.

Next Wednesday, Oct. 4, is "our" Mass. We will be doing the readings, gifts, and greetings. If your child has a reading, it was already sent home. I will rotate the parts so that by the end of the year, each student will have at least one chance to read.

If you haven't already done so, please return your September reading log. It is not part of any grade, however, the more children read, the better they will become.

Because next week is a short one, there will not be a spelling test. I use the shorter weeks to catch up on skills we may have missed.

Several students have asked about bringing an instrument to play for us. A few have done so already. I will set up one day a month to bring in the instrument and play for the class. I will let you know the date ahead of time.
